

THE OUTSIDE.—Louis Betz, who left here some six weeks ago to hunt for a new locality to locate, returned on Saturday last. During his absence he took a trip over the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad and visited a number of the mining towns of Southwest Colorado, and with the exception of Gunnison City, he seen none that showed the least signs of stability. At this place there are iron mines, and wealthy companies are erecting large iron and steel works. Silverton he reports as being nothing but a burrah whiz-drinking railroad town, over-run with thieves and cut-throats. It has no foundation whatever, that he could see, on which to build. At Ouray they are working twenty men in one mine, and these are all the men working. There are no reduction works at Ouray, and what little ore extracted is shipped to Pueblo for reduction. The people of Ouray are living on the expectations of a boom visiting them this summer. He also visited the "Red Hills," about which there are such great tales in regard to the richness of the mines floating through the country. While there he saw no mines. There were from three to six feet of snow on the ground. The mining locations are made on top of the snow, the stakes driven in the snow, and no person knows what is beneath the snow. It is the opinion of many who visited the Red Hills that when the snow melts away so will the rich mines.

MEADOW VALLEY.—On Wednesday we were up at the Meadow Valley mine taking a look at what is called the "new strike," and in company with Supt. Duff we entered the mine. The strike was made in the old Fitzhugh tunnel, and is in a distance of 600 feet from the entrance of the tunnel on Meadow Valley street. The ledge has been sunk on about six feet from the bottom of the tunnel, and is nearly four feet in width from wall to wall at the place where work was then being done. Some five tons of this ore was sent to the Dry Valley mill, and the pulp assay went $44 in silver and $6 in gold, the total pulp assay being $50. This discovery is nothing new. The workings of the mine shows this. The ore above this point was all extracted years ago. The ore had all been extracted down to the tunnel level in early days, then it becoming of low grade, it was abandoned, very probably because in those days $50 ore would not pay. It is simply the continuation of the ledge, where work had been left off. In the tunnel level, on the ledge, several winzes have been sunk by chlorides, who finally abandoned them. In some of these winzes the ore is said to go from $50 to $80, at the bottom. At the present time $50 ore will pay a company a handsome profit.

EL DORADO.—From Ben Thomas, who has been engaged in missionary work among the heathens of El Dorado Canyon for the past six months, and who arrived Monday evening, we obtained the following news in regard to affairs at that point: The 15-stamp mill of the Southwestern Mining Company is running to its full capacity. None but company ore is being worked, as they have a large quantity of it on hand. The company is working about forty-five men at both mine and mill. Jim Cronin has been engaged in running the Fife mill on chlorides' ore, and having completed this job, the mill is closed down for the present. Most of the chlorides at that place appear to be doing pretty well. Thomas and his partners, who leased a prospect from Cronin and worked it for the last three months, each cleared $1,133 as their share, above expenses, including provisions.

DAY MINE.—The lower levels of this mine has greatly improved during the week. The large cave of ore recently struck has been sunk on to the depth of twenty feet, and how much further it extends downward, work alone will determine. The drift on the 7th level has touched the fissure, and large boulders of exceedingly rich ore were found. Many of the boulders will weigh over 200 pounds and are filled with silver. The ore recently struck is different from any heretofore encountered in the mine, and goes high in lead as well as silver. Work is being pushed ahead throughout the mine, and the lower drifts are being shoved rapidly ahead toward the fissure. A number of handsome, large and very rich specimens have been brought to town the past few days.

CALICO BALL.—The calico party given Wednesday evening for the benefit of the public schools was the most pleasant affair of the kind that has been held in Pioche for many a day. The attendance was large and the ladies looked very handsome in their pretty calico dresses. We will state, for the benefit of married men, that if their wives were aware of how sweet and charming they looked in calico dresses, they would forever wear dresses made of that material. The pleasure of the evening was greatly enhanced by the presence of a number of ladies and gentlemen from Bristol, Panaca and Bullionville. The dance broke up about 4 o'clock Wednesday morning.

KINOFISHER.—As work progresses on the promising and really wonderful prospects, the developments are exceedingly favorable. Parties who have seen the claim within the past week give a most flattering account, and as a corroboration of their statement, a letter received by J. C. Lynch from the men at the mine states about the same as those who visited the mine tell.

BULLIONVILLE AND PANACA DOTS.

A sensational episode occurred in our village on Sunday.

The click of the mower can be heard in our lucern patches.

Fragrant bouquet can be had for the asking at Mrs. Wedge's.

Frank Carroll's milk punches are just the thing this warm weather.

If it were not for the cool breezes in the afternoons these warm days would be disagreeably unpleasant.

It is said that a woman can fall lower in the mire than a man, but after witnessing the conduct of a Bullionvillian lately, we doubt it.

Nick Miller, who has some pretensions as a critic of female loveliness, says that the rosy cheeks and symmetrical forms of our village girls are incomparable in any land.

Charles Stein informs us that he intends to reopen his Panaca Saloon in Pioche. Charley has become tired of Bullionville and longs for the fresh air and pure water of the hill.

The Bullionvillians who attended the calico ball in Pioche speak enthusiastically of the good time that they had, and only wish that the affair could be repeated at least once a month.

J. F. Chidister, an attorney from Washington, Utah, was over during the week in the interest of the Public Administrator of Hebron, looking up matters pertaining to the William Pulsipher estate, out at Shoal Creek.

The predatory small boys are helping themselves to the ripe and luscious cherries of our garden; but the gamins will hear something go off that will smart more than a teacher's spanking, if they don't look a "leetle out."

One of the fair ladies of Pioche made quite an impression the other evening on one of our youths at the calico ball, since which he has shown a reckless disregard of the charms of our village girls, much to the surprise of these ladies.

All persons indebted to Chas. Stein are hereby notified to come forward and settle up such indebtedness immediately. Unless it is done by the first of July, all accounts remaining unpaid will be placed in the hands of the officer for collection.

When a young man goes a buggy riding with his dulciana and mistakes a trail for a well traveled road, as one of our friends did lately, his thoughts must be heavenward, and full of that consciousness of possession which is oblivious to surrounding objects.

Mr. Yoacham has rented the Bullionville restaurant and will have it in running order by the first of the month. The change will be an agreeable one and the Bullionvillians can rejoice, for a nice clean meal is far preferable to the opium flavored hash that the Chinese have been dishing out to them.

Jake Colburn informs us that the people of the Wash have decided upon celebrating the Fourth at his place, and being honored thus, he proposes to set a free table and furnish the musicians for an all night dance. Mr. Colburn cordially invites the people of Panaca and Bullionville to participate in the celebration.

Quite a large crowd assembled in Bullionville Monday evening to witness a foot race for $100 between a young chap from Arkansas and a young Mormon boy from Beaver, Utah. The race, like all others in this section, was a fraud, the parties backing down at the last moment sooner than take the chances of getting a thrashing from the outsiders, whom they were about to victimize, for it was a put-up job.

We learn that a saintly revelator temporarily sojourning in Bullionville intends answering in the Beaver Unionian our short article on polygamy that appeared in the "Dots" of June 9th. We are glad to learn this, for the more light that is thrown on the filthy subject the clearer its hideousness will appear to every Latter-day saint, but as we never get to see the Unionian would it not be as well if the gentleman would confine the discussion of the subject to the columns of the RECORD? Besides a great many Nevadans have a curiosity to hear the justification that an intelligent man can offer for the practice of that which the civilized world condemns as debasing to the morals of man and woman.

L. S. Scott, of Bristol, who has been over looking at the new prospects twelve miles from Coyote Springs, reports the showing very favorable. The ledges uncovered by House and others are from one to four feet in width. Of course nothing can be told in regard to these yet, as scarcely any work has been done. The formation is lime. The ore is of fair grade.

T. E. Flagg, foreman of the Day mine, was in town on Sunday. When Flagg arrived in Royal City to again resume the formanship of the Day, he stated that he would never again enter Pioche until he found something in the mine worth reporting. He made his word good.

The private school which has been conducted by Miss Bell Osborne for the past three months was closed on Friday afternoon, thus giving the youngsters a summer's vacation.

DR. BELL, the world renowned caterer, rendered valuable assistance to the Trustees on the night of the party by aiding in arrangement of the lunch.

A Good Method.—Young ladies, particularly young and bewitching ones, as a general rule, are frequently troubled with admirers whose attentions are objectionable, and various are the methods resorted to by the fair, but heartless, creatures to banish these pests. A young man, with an unlimited belief in his own poetical powers, and a tender attachment for a local young lady, who recently returned from Utah, has been accused, to call on her six evenings in the week, and to entertain her with his brilliant love poems from 8 to 12 o'clock, and would constantly ask her opinion. The young lady growing weary of the poet's addresses, and wishing to get rid of them, purchased a package of small round candies, also a number of sugar-coated pills resembling the candies, which was warranted to go through a person in the twinkling of a star. On the poet's arrival at the house that evening, he had been seated but a moment when he was handed the candy. Poets being fond of sweet things, it was natural for the bard to help himself to a goodly allowance of the sweets. He sat repeating poetry and eating candy but a few minutes, when he suddenly arose, begged pardon for being compelled to tear himself away at such an early hour, but very pressing business would not permit him to remain longer. The fair creature would not permit him to depart. She gently pushed him in a chair and caressed him. The poet, in great agony, stood the caressing as long as possible, when, with a wild bound he sprang to his feet, spilling the young lady all over the carpet and, hatless, he rushed out and down Main street, and if he held his heart beneath his hand, his heart is located in a very odd place. The poet has not called on the young lady since. Young ladies should be careful how they administer physics, for if the poet should have collapsed, which he very nearly did, what would have been the young lady's feelings. However, there is not much harm done in killing a poet, at any rate.

The District Attorney, Thompson Campbell, received a letter signed by many of the residents of Pahranagat Valley, requesting that the Sheriff go there and arrest one Charley Jenks, an insane man, who is running at large and striking terror to the hearts of the settlers. The letter states that Jenks has taken possession of Mr. Gear's premises and run off all the hired help by threatening their lives. Jenks imagines all persons are after him for the purpose of killing him, and threatens to kill any person who follows him. He cannot be captured alive, therefore the residents of the valley request that the Sheriff, with sufficient force, go down there and take Jenks, "dead or alive," away from there immediately. There is a Justice and Constable at Hiko. Why do not the people of Hiko arrest Jenks.

TAYLOR DISTRICT.—Jno. N. Craig, who is now over in Taylor District, writes as follows in regard to that place: "Times here are dull, but are expected to be better soon. There are 200 men here, about sixty of whom are at work. Five saloons are in the course of erection, including the one already running, and two restaurants. Taylor will be quite a busy place after the new mill is completed and running. There are large quantities of good ore here on the surface. I have not been in any of the mines yet, with the exception of the Old Brown Bull, owned by R. W. Simpson and others. The Brown Bull, it is thought, will prove one of the best mines in this district."

When a man goes away and travels over a country where lively times and plenty of money are reported to be, looking for a place where to pitch his tent, and then returns to Pioche and is satisfied to remain here, it leads us to believe that all the wonderful tales told about said places are not strictly correct.

Owing to Congress failing to make appropriation for the Signal Service Corps, the station in Pioche, along with numerous others throughout the land, has been ordered discontinued. Owing to the station here being on the Mount Diablo meridian, it was an important office.

R. HYMAN returned from his trip to Southern Utah during the week. He brought back a load of check and flannel goods from the factory at Washington.

The wife of Joseph A. Behr presented him with a son last Saturday afternoon. At Royal City, on the same day, Mrs. E. Thibault gave birth to a boy.

SAMUEL ROWE, the late foreman of the Day mine, at Royal City, has been appointed foreman of the principal mines of Calico District, California.

HERMAN FREEDENTHAL, after an absence of about three years, returned to the scenes of his boyhood last Saturday.

The stock boom has appeared to let up, while those who have been dealing in stock have been let down ungenially.

J. Ponjale has purchased the residence of W. E. Griffin at the corner of Cedar and Ely streets.

J. E. JONES, collector of internal revenue for this district, arrived here Tuesday evening.

The residence of Gov Goodrich at Frisco was destroyed by the recent fire at that place.

A FIFE and family arrived from the Canyon on Monday afternoon.

MISS PAT COLLINS is now giving music lessons. Terms reasonable.

The Comet District prospectors are shipping in sacked ore.

The days will now grow shorter.

STATE ITEMS.

Martin White stock has been assessed 25 cents.

The Tybo mill will soon start up on ores from the 2-G mine.

Mine owners are hard at work in Reveille District, Nye county.

The Courier says the work of repairing the Belmont mill is progressing steadily.

The Bonanza advises all in search of employment to keep away from Grantsville.

Cherry Creek News: Mr. R. L. Bassett, the man recently waylaid and shot in Spring Valley, came to town Thursday with his family and will remain some time. He is under treatment.

Judge Rives, says the Eureka Sentinel, has instructed the executive officers of White Pine county to use all diligence in ferreting out those who were engaged in the murder of O'Neil at Ocoola.

Jonas Seeley, the well-known former Comstock lawyer, lately of Colorado, died at his home in Oakland on Saturday, the 16th instant. Late reverses in business are said to have been instrumental in hastening his death.

Eureka Sentinel: Jack Wheatly, a miner working in Robinson Canyon, was coming up home from Ward in a wagon, from which he fell to the ground. The wagon ran over him before he could regain his feet and crushed his leg, breaking the bone.

Tuscarora Times-Review: During the run of the Independence-Navajo mill just closed, commencing on the 20th of July 1882 and ending on the 10th inst., it has turned out bullion to the amount of $818,866.42. This for a mill of but ten stamps, is probably the best record in the State.

Horse-fly Brown, a Hawthorne genius, has invented an apparatus for catching gnats, moths and all kinds of night-flying insects. It is simply a paper lantern hung outside the door of a house, the outside of the paper of the lantern being covered with some sticky substance. He claims that his lantern prevents the insects getting into the house.

Safford Express: The Humboldt river at Gerald is about 60 feet wide at present. The stream is very high for the season and swift, having risen gradually for the past four weeks. The water will probably begin to recede by the end of the present week, and the river be fordable with teams during the latter part of July. A small rowboat is now employed to transfer travelers to Safford.

Eureka Leader: At the meeting of the stockholders of the Eureka & Colorado River Railroad Company, held yesterday, the question of resuming work on the Eureka branch of that road was seriously discussed. From sources which we deem reliable we learn that the above work will be postponed for the present, but that if the prospects of that portion of the country through which it is intended the road shall come shall in a few months develop anything sufficient to guarantee the work of construction, then about the beginning of next year the matter will be actively taken up and the road pushed through.

PLEASANT BUSINESS.—An exchange says: Editing a paper is pleasant business—if you like it. If the paper contains much political matter, those who do not aspire to office grumble, and if it does not everybody else is dissatisfied. If we publish telegraph reports, folks say they are nothing but lies. If we omit them, they say we have no enterprize, or suppress them for political effect. If we print a few jokes, we are accused of being rattleheaded. If we omit them, folks say we are nothing but old fossils. If we publish original matter, they damn us for not giving selections. If we give selections, people say we are lazy for not writing more and giving them what they have not read in some other paper. If we give a complimentary notice, we are accused of being partial; if we don't, all hands say we are a great hog. If we insert an article which pleases the ladies, the men become jealous, and vice versa. If we attend church, they say it is for effect; if we remain in our office, attending to our business, folks say we are too proud to mingle with our fellows; if we go out, they say we don't attend to our business. If we don't pay up promptly, folks say we are not to be trusted; if we pay up promptly, they say we borrowed the money.

The Modoc (Cal.) Independent says: "On Thursday morning last the Indians of Alturas, Cal., brought in an Indian whom they found on the plateau about six miles north of town, in a badly mangled condition. The wounded Indian states that he was hunting in the brush and came suddenly on a female grizzly with two cubs. Before he had time to shoot, the bear was upon him and knocked the gun from his hand, and throwing him down, bit and clawed him and finally left him for dead. As soon as he thought she was at a safe distance the Indian raised up, took a steady aim and fired, killing the bear instantly."

A new law has come into force in Germany, prohibiting the use of poisonous substances to color any food designed for consumption, or for the wrappers enclosing any article of food. The law extends, also, to the employment of any poisonous material in toys used for playthings for children, and in paper used for wall decoration, or dress material. Such a law is needed in some other countries besides Germany.

George Jordan, while raising a disturbance in an Indian camp at Coos bay, was shot and killed by an Indian named Joe.
